"This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it or their revolutionary right to dismember it or overthrow it."

The National Safety Council, chartered by an act of Congress, is a non-government, not-for-profit, public service organization with a mission to educate and influence people to prevent accidental injury and death. They collect and report the facts about accidental injuries and deaths from all sources. Recently, the NSC released data from 2007. Here are some facts:

Accidental Firearms Fatalities are at an All-time Low. Firearms are involved in fewer than 1 percent of all accidental fatalities in the United States. In a side by side comparison with other forms of injury, firearms have the lowest rate of accidents.

Public firearms safety education projects, like Hunter Safety Courses, Handgun Permit Courses, NRA First Steps programs, and similar educational programs are credited with contributing to the decline in firearms accidents. Firearm related fatalities in the U.S. have been decreasing consistently since record keeping began in 1903 and have reduced dramatically in the last 20 years.

During the last decade, the number of unintentional firearm related deaths for children 14 years of age and under has decreased by 61%, and by 77% in the last 20 years. Firearms are involved in 1% of accidental deaths among children 14 years of age and under, the lowest cause of accidental fatality.

Firearm related accidental deaths in the home are down 50% from 1987 levels. In the entire United States in 2007 there were only 400 accidental firearm related deaths occurring in the home, in a population of 300,000,000 people. In contrast, in 2007 about 1,000 people drowned in their own homes and another 11,600 died in accidental falls in the home. Removing bathtubs and stairs from your home would be more prudent than removing the firearms.

Hunting is a sport deeply involved with firearms, but it is one of the safest sports. The number of injuries reported for participants in various sports in 2007 included:

Baseball-	167,661	Bowling-	21,819	Football-	455,193
Golf-	36,886	Soccer-	198,679	Volleyball-	57,039

HUNTING- 916

Thus, one is 22 times more likely to be injured while bowling than while hunting. Remember that the next time somebody tries to tell you how unsafe it is to have a gun in the home.

For the purposes of record keeping, the US Justice Department defines "violent crime" as Murder, Aggravated Assault, Forcible Rape, Robbery, and Kidnapping. The Justice Dept recently released figures for 2008, indicating there were 4.9 million of these offenses during last year. That is roughly a rate of one violent crime per 60 residents.

Dry Fire Drills

The amount of practice one does may not be nearly as important when the flag flies as how recent your last practice was.

The easiest way to ensure you had RECENT practice is to engage in dry practice at home on a frequent basis. Here is a suggested dry fire practice regimen that takes only a few minutes to complete. We suggest this routine 2-3 times per week to maintain your skills.

CLEAR YOUR GUN. Remove all live ammunition from the dry fire area.

1. Draw to the ready. Draw like you mean business! Remember that the gun should be low enough for you to see the hands and waistline of an assailant, your trigger finger straight. Do this 10 times.
2. Draw to the ready, once. From the ready, bring the gun up to the eye/target line, get a quick sight picture, and get the slack out of the trigger, but do not press. Do this 10 times.
3. Draw to the ready, once. From the ready, present to the target and press off a good hit, quickly. Do this 10 times.
4. From the holster, present to the target, get a quick sight picture, and get the slack out of the trigger, but do not press. Do this 10 times.
5. From the holster, present to the target and press off a good hit. Do this 10 times.
6. From the ready, gun in dominant hand only. Present to the target and press off a good hit. Do this 10 times.
7. Same as above, but with the non-dominant hand only. Do this 10 times.
8. Start at ready, slide locked open on empty magazine. Have a magazine in your pouch, with at least one dummy round in it. Do an emergency reload. Do this 5 times.

Clear the gun. Put the dry fire target away. Out loud, say to yourself, "this session is over." Leave the dry fire area.

Some minutes later, in a different room, load the gun and say out loud, "this gun is now loaded". Holster the gun on your person or put it in its proper storage location.

Be serious about safety. When a session is over, IT IS OVER. Put the gear away.

NEVER SAY JUST ONE MORE TIME.

4. I agree that USSA, or any representative thereof, may, but has no duty to, provide to me with first aid, or through medical personnel of their choice, medical or training assistance, transportation, and emergency medical services if I am injured at USSA. 6. I shall indemnify, without qualification or limitation, the Released Parties, and shall defend and hold the Released Parties harmless from any and all claims, causes of action, demands or charges of every kind (including attorney's fees and costs) which any party may claim to have for property damage or personal injuries or any other damages, including death, arising from any cause or reason of every kind pertaining to or referring to or relating to: (1) my use of USSA's facilities; (2) my activities on the USSA facility; (3) any training I receive from USSA; and/or (4) my use of any vehicles, assets or materials of USSA.

7. This Agreement shall be construed and interpreted pursuant to Oklahoma law. Neither party shall commence any litigation against the other arising out this Agreement except in the District Court of Tulsa County, Oklahoma. Each party hereby consents to jurisdiction over it by, and exclusive venue in, the District Court of Tulsa County, Oklahoma.

8. In the event any provision of this Agreement is held to be overbroad as written, such provision shall be deemed to be amended to narrow its application to the extent necessary to make the provision enforceable according to applicable law.

Where Will You Need Your Gun?

Many, many people, including some who should know better, mistakenly believe that your home is the most likely place for one to need to use a defensive firearm. To me, this premise is obviously incorrect, so why do so many people believe it?

The answer is simple. Whether you read the newspaper, search the internet, or watch TV news, most of the legitimate self defense stories occur in the defender's home. Since most of the defensive incidents you become aware of happened in the defender's home, you begin to become convinced that the home is where most attacks take place. There is a ridiculously easy explanation for why the home is so over-represented in these reports.

According to various studies, about half of the households in the United States contain firearms. So, when at home, 50% of the US population has access to guns. Conversely, only 3% of the population has a handgun carry permit, so the vast majority of the US population does not have access to firearms when away from the home. Duh..... If you don't have access to a firearm when attacked, you will not be able to defend yourself with a firearm. So, the only reason the majority of successful defensive gun uses occur in the home is that is the only place most people have access to a gun. Simple.

In fact, you are far more likely to be attacked in a life threatening manner away from home. Thus, one should be armed whenever one is away from home. That is the purpose of a carry permit and skill with a personal sidearm—the sidearm is the weapon carried away from home. To illustrate, here are some statistics from the United States Department of Justice, looking at Robbery Locations for the year 2007:

Street- 43.8%	Commercial- 13.9%	Residence- 15.2%
Banks- 2.1%	Gas station- 2.6%	Miscellaneous- 16.8%

So, you are almost three times as likely to be robbed on the street than at home, and in the home only accounts for 1 robbery in 6. Similar patterns exist for rape, aggravated assaults, etc. In fact, good locks, an alarm system, and proper lighting can reduce your risk of violent crime at home to very low levels. Once you leave your home, though, you have no control over such items. The one thing you can control is having your emergency safety equipment with you, so you can respond to emergencies that occur away from home. Remember, the gun you left at home won't help you anywhere else.
